

KMA ACCREDITATION FEES

KMA accreditation fees are established by its Board of Trustees and periodically revised relative to operational costs of the program.

Standard accreditation fees include the application filing fee, site surveyor travel expenses, and an annual reporting fee. The CME Committee, however, may evaluate an institution's accreditation status prior to its designated date for resurvey if interim information indicates that the institution has undergone substantial changes and/or may no longer be in compliance with the Accreditation Criteria, Standards for Commercial Support and Policies.

Non-Accreditation or Voluntary Withdrawal of Accreditation: The usual effective date for non-accreditation decisions is one year from the date of the CMEC non-accreditation action. In certain cases, a shorter time frame may be assigned. Providers that receive non-accreditation decisions are responsible for payment of all fees. Failure to do so will result in immediate non-accreditation.

If an applicant for re-accreditation cannot meet the accreditation process deadlines, their accreditation term may be extended once, by four months, with written request from the applicant. The accreditation status of a provider will automatically revert to non-accreditation at the end of their accreditation term unless ACCME action is taken to extend their term of accreditation.

Providers must notify KMA in writing of their intent to voluntarily withdraw from the accreditation system. No rebates will be given for Annual Accreditation Fees collected from providers requesting voluntary withdrawal.

JOINT PROVIDERSHIP

A graduated fee shall be required at the time of application for joint providership by KMA. This fee will be proportional to the accreditation fees, depending on the size and constitution of the sponsoring organization.
